Bands of Light to Moderate Snow Continuing in Eastern Connecticut...

Good Afternoon,

At 3:00 PM radar showed one band of light to moderate snow continuing to impact Eastern CT. Current temperatures are in the low to mid 20's across the state. Winds are gusting from the North at 15 - 25 MPH. Total snowfall currently ranges from 6" - 8" in far Western CT, 10" - 18" in Central CT up to 31" in parts of Eastern CT.

The current snow band should begin to weaken over the next few hours with some additional light accumulations of around an inch or two expected in Eastern CT. Total snowfall for this event is now forecast to range from 6" - 8" in far Western CT, 10" - 18" in Central CT and up to 24" - 32" in Eastern CT.

The Department of Emergency Services and Public Protection will continue to monitor this storm and will send out another update at 5:15 PM with an updated snowfall map.
